	80-100%	2	5	5	5	Very good subject, most important is that it's lit. classes are interesting, teacher is very good. This course will definitely improve your speaking skills, your control over your voice and vocals (believe me that's important for a good speaker), and since it's based on theatrical acting, it will develop a good command over your expressions. Attend every class, just four small written assignments in MS-Word (a 2hr job if you attend every class and just a day preparation before the exam. Just attend all the classes, that's important, and you will definitely enjoy the course.

	80-100%	3	5	5	5	Must Take Course. Worth the timez
	80-100%	2	5	4	5	The teacher is good. Grading is fine. Attend just 2 classes in a week, prepare 2 hours before exam and you are good to go. No theory until compare.
	80-100%	2	5	4	5	Only acting on stage. Most people get near highest marks. Anybody can take this only those who know acting. He teaches you basics. The least burdened elective.
	60-80%	2	5	5	4	The instructor is awesome. You will surely love attending Pranav's lectures. One of the best humanity course available
	80-100%	4	5	4	3	As fun as it may sound, the content that will actually be taught will be quite different from what you'd expect. Nevertheless, the teacher, Samuel Tharu makes the content extremely interesting and the classes are worth attending. Do not expect the grading to be lenient.

	40-60%	2	5	3	4	One of those courses which disappoint you simply because you expected more from it. It is a good introduction to the field of IR, but the syllabus is very theoretical and you are expected to memorize a lot of things. Samuel Tharu sir was amazing while teaching it and the grading is lit. The best part was working on the assignment whose topic was chosen by us only. But if you really want to learn more in IR, it's better to just read books on foreign policy and politics in the library. I learned more from there than from the course itself.
